

MARY FAINSOD KATZENSTEIN

Mary Fainsod Katzenstein is the Stephen and Evalyn Milman Professor of American Studies and professor in the Government Department at Cornell University. She is the author/editor of several books on political activism and equality: The Women's Movements of the United States and Western Europe (co-edited with Carol Mueller); Faithful and Fearless: Moving Feminist Protest inside the Church and Military; Beyond Zero Tolerance: Discrimination and Military Culture in the U.S. (co-edited with Judith Reppy) and Social Movements in India: Poverty, Power and Politics (co-edited with Raka Ray). Her articles on incarceration have focused on felony disenfranchisement, non-profit advocacy work; and child support debt owed by incarcerated fathers. She also helped to initiate Cornell's Prison Education Program (CPEP) in two of the local maximum security facilities near Ithaca.
