DUAL ENROLLMENT CREDIT: Some applicants to Cornell take college courses during high school. Non-Cornell credit may be accepted when:

- the credits are earned at an accredited institution
- the course is taken on a college/university campus or online with matriculated college students and is taught by a college/university professor
- the credits have not been applied toward high school graduation requirements
- an email from a HS counselor is sent to ilradmissions@cornell.edu confirming that the course meets the above criteria (this should be sent the summer before the student begins taking classes at Cornell)
- the grade earned is “C” or better
